Minnesota Genealogical Society engages in and supports outreach to the broader community - including genealogical and historical groups, libraries, and societies in the local, state, and Midwestern regions, as well as diverse age and ethnic groups - to discover and share family histories through events and expanded access to education and resources.

The Hoffman Research library contains over 34,000 items representing the state of Minnesota; all its individual counties and larger cities; all fifty states of the United States plus specialized regions (e.g. New England); and a wide spectrum of nationalities and countries from around the world. The depth of coverage varies across states and countries, and many items are in their language of origin.
